WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14, 1872. A Republican Campaign Committee's

Work. The New York Republican Association has voted that all the money in its treasury be disbursed by the campaign committee in aid of needy members ire to go home to vote. This committee is rapidly closing up the campaign work, considering that the State is safe, and that, at all events, every thing has been done that could be done from here to make it so. Over 1,000,000 documents, one-tenth of the entire number issued by the Congressional committee, have been sent into the State by the campaign committee, a very large number individually selected and addressed to doubtful voters whose names had been obtained through the large correspondence maintained with every part of the State. Several other States were also canvassed and supplied by the New York committee, at the request of the General Committee, which had no effective means of doing the work. Evangelizing Funerals—A Protest Against Sunday Burials.

Piety has taken a new turn in evangelical circles in this city. The large number of Masonic and benevolent funeral processions on Sunday has disturbed the meditations of the four score or more of ministers more effectually than the music of the beer garden has the congregation of the Seventh street Methodist Episcopal Church in New York, as the following resolution adopted at a meeting of the Protestant clergy of the District of Columbia to-day will show :-

Whereas the burial of the dead upon the Lord's day should be avoided, except in cases of extreme necessity, for the following reasons, namely:

First-Because it involves unnecessary work on that day by undertakers, livery stable men, hackmen and horses, the superintendents of cemeteries and their assistants, in violation of the letter and aprirt of the fourth commandment, "In it thou shalt not do any work, thou nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man servant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor the stranger that is within thy gate."

Second—Because it provests

Necond—Because it prevents such persons from attending divine service.

Third—Because it seriously interferes with the duties of ministers on the most important and laborious day of the week. Fourth-Because bands of music playing the most frivolous airs on their return from the grave are often employed, attracting crowds into the streets and disturbing public worship; therefore,

Resolved. That we carnestly protest against these abuses, and request the members of our congregations and the public in general, so far as possible, not to select the Lord's day for the burial of their dead, and to avoid the hours of public service and the employment of bands of

The Mexican Cow Thicf Commission. Ess. Robb and Savage, of the Texas Border Commission, had a brief interview with the President this morning, but nothing of consequence was developed. They also visited the State Department.

Colonel Robb left to-night for Chicago. The other commissioners leave Washington very shortly, and will return during the latter part of November with their report prepared for the action of the Presi-

The Departmental Reports. The government offices being closed to the public to-day most of the chiefs of bureaus took advantage of the unwonted relief from current business to advance the preparation of their annual reports for the press.

PROBABLE MURDER IN THE TRIRD WARD.

Last night some citizens found Edward Benderlon, a vagrant, bleeding from a dangerous wound on the head, in Washington street, and took him to the Twenty-seventh precinct station house, when he stated that about nine o'clock he got into a difficulty about the payment of some liquor with an unknown individual in a saloon and was struck on the head with an axe. Benderion could not remember when the fracas occurred, and was sent to the Park Mospital.

SOLEMN CEREMONIES AT ST. PETER'S

The Pall-Bearers-Procession to Fort Hill Cemetery and the Interment.

President Grant Condoles with the Afflicted Family.

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 14, 1872. A cold and very disagreeable drizzling rain set in last night, and the morning opened very gloomy upon the city which, to make the aspect more sombre, was clothed in the haulliments of mourning. Business was suspended for the day, and a general quietude pervaded all the streets. The re mains of the lamented deceased, resting in a beautiful rosewood casket, and clothed in a white merino robe, were placed in a parlor adjoining the library where he died at an early hour this morning. The casket was covered with white and orange colored flowers, and the tables in the room were covered with similar flowers, made up in the form of crosses and other devices. The room, filled with works of art, and so profusely strewn with flowers, presented a most pleasing appearance.

RUSHING TO SEE THE STATESMAN'S FACE. At nine o'clock the citizens and those attending the funeral from abroad commenced wending their way to the mansion. Entering the gate and passing under the archway of trees they ascended, long and continuous line, to the spacious hallway. in which were hung a large number of curiosities, selected by the deceased on his travels around the globe. Passing on the line entered the library, in which the deceased breathed his last, and turning to the left entered the parior, where the remains were lying in state. After viewing the remains the people passed on, and out of a door leading to a porch overlooking a beautiful garden, in the midst of the foliage and shrubbery of which a fountain was playing. In the parlor, with the remains, were several ladies, friends of the family, and outside, in the library and the halls, were the servants, who had been long attached to the household. The scene presented was a solemn and beautiful one. The trace of age was plainly visible in the features of the deceased; the furrows made by time and the silver-white hair gave a patriarchal aspect to the countenance, and there was yet visible the same dignity of calmness in it which was its most striking feature in life. Among THOSE WHO APPROACHED THE CASKET with bated breath and sincere reverence were Thurlow Weed, Samuel B. Ruggles, John Bigelow, George Dawson, G. E. Baker, George W. Van Nort, Hamilton Fish, Jr.; ex-Governor Morgan, Comptrol-ler Hopkins, R. H. Pruyn, Thomas Murphy, Richard Schell, E. W. Leavenworth, General Chedelle, E. B. Morgan, George W. Patterson, Nelson Beardsley, James Cowen, Hugh Hastings, Thomas Cowen, and a large number of others, who have been life-long friends, admirers and supporters of the deceased.

The streets of the city are thronged with people who are arriving by trains and from the surro ing country in private conveyances. The storm continues, but the people line the streets through which the procession is to pass, and many persons have secured places at the windows of the buildings. There was a constant stream of people to view the remains until one o'clock P. M., and it is estimated that not less than 6,000 persons passed the casket. Among those who had made arrangements to attend the funeral, but are debarred by the unfavorable weather, are the students of Wells College, at Aurora, an institution in which the deceased had taken much interest.

THE REMAINS CARRIED TO ST. PETER'S. After the services at the late home of the deceased were performed by Rev. Dr. Brainard, amid the family and relatives only, the remains were carried by the deceased's late servants to the church, the bells of the various churches in the city tolling. The church was filled, with the exception of the seats reserved for the family and the pall bearers, and thousands, unable to gain admittance, were obliged to stand in the rain outside.

THE CHURCH was tastefully draped with mourning. On the aitar was a cross formed of Autumn-tinted leaves. The sable cloth on the altar was hung in festoons, fastened with miniature sheaves of wheat. The new of the family of the deceased, on the right of the altar. was draped in mourning. In front of the altar some fifty clergymen and ministers of various denominations were seated. Among them are the following:-Hawley, Condit, Austin, Neville, Maynard, Chamberlain, Boardman, Preston and Beecher, Dr. Haie and Professor Hopkins. DR. BRAINARD'S ASSISTANTS.

The Rev. Dr. Brainard, pastor of St. Peter's, was assisted by the Rev. William D. Doty, of St. Paul's, Waterloo; Rev. Charles R. Hale, of St. John's, Auburn, and the Rev. Charles G. Reed, of Geneva. THE USHERS.

The following gentlemen acted as ushers:-Charles A. Meyers, H. D. Titus, Albert Hollister, H. B. Fitch, Henry Ivison and T. W. Meacher.

THE PROCESSION. At ten minutes to three o'clock P. M. the assisting clergy marched down the aisle to the front entrance of the church and there met Rev. Dr. Brainard with the remains. A procession was formed, led by the assisting clergy, repeating the introductory sentences, "I am the resurrection and the life." &c. Then came Dr. Brainard, and behind him the remains, borne by deceased's former servants. Then followed the deceased's family, and after them the following pall-bearers:-

Ex-Governor Edwin D. Morgan, of New York;
Richard Schell, of New York;
Elias W. Leavenworth, of Syracuse;
Ex-Secretary of State Edwin B. Morgan, of Aurora,

THURLOW WEED WEEPING OVER THE REMAINS. Thurlow Weed was greatly affected on beholding the remains in the casket, and for ten minutes wept like a child over the form of his old and beloved friend. He became seriously ill almost immediately afterwards, and, although entered one of the chief pall-bearers, was unable to gather sufficient strength to attend the funeral.

The remains were placed on a couch in front of the altar. The deceased's family took their places in their pews, and the servants and pall-bearers fied into the reserved pews. During all this the congregation rose to their feet and remained

A LAST LOOK AT THE DEAD. Dr. Brainard then announced that an oppor-tunity would be given the congregation to view the remains by passing up the middle aisle and thence out the west door. The entire congregation availed themselves of this opportunity. The beautiful flowers brought from New York by Richard Schell, and which graced the parlor in which the remains were laid in state, were brought to the church and placed on the casket. After the congregation had all passed out a procession was formed in the following order and marched in death.

MR. SEWARD'S RESTING PLACE. The lot in which the deceased was buried is situated on a gradually sloping bank in Glen Haven, and is surrounded by noble old trees. The grave lies between two beautiful sarcophaguses, one con taining the remains of his former wife on the left. and the other those of his daughter on the right. Next to the grave of his wife is the grave of Judge Miller, father-in-law of the deceased, and who was the first one buried in the cemetery.

All the military, firemen and civic societies were in citizens' dress, and no music was in the line.

Seward. The flags on the municipal and United States buildings remained at balf-mast throughout yesterday in the city of Brooklyn, out of respect to the memory of ex-Secretary Seward. His Honor Mayor Samuel & Powell sent in the subjoined communica tion to the Common Council, which was read and ordered to be placed on the minutes :-

TO THE HON. THE COMMON COUNCIL:—
GENTLEMEN—Another name has been added to the long list of great statesmen and pure patriots whom the country have loved and lost. William H. Seward, whose name has been closely identified with the political history of the country during the past twenty-five years, and whose wisdom and sagacity have extended his fame among all the nations of civilized men, has passed away to his reward.

The country owes him a great debt of gratitude for his fine country owes him a great debt of gratitude for his him more than to all others, are we indebted for saving in the councils of the nation, and to him more than to all others, are we indebted for saving us from foreign complication during our great civil war, His patience and wisdom have challenged the respect of all men, and his untiring industry has produced great results for his country and mankind.

And it therefore behooves us to join with our fellow-citizens throughout the country in giving expression to the sorrow that fills all hearts at the great loss sostained by the world in the death of the departed statesman. Respectfully submitted.

S. S. POWELL, Mayor. Alderman Boggs, of the Twentieth ward, offered the subjoined, which were adopted unanimously:— Resolved, That the Common Council has received with the deepest regret information of the death of William H. Seward. The loss of such a statesman is a national the deepest regret minimator of statesman is a national calamity.

Resolved. The loss of such a statesman is a national calamity.

Resolved. That by his death the State of New York has sustained the loss of its most flustrious citizen, the nation has lost its greatest statesman. Its unimpeached integrity; his unremitting industry in the discharge of the rights of man; his love of freedom and wise abhortence of slavery and oppression in all its forms, his unremitting labors to raise the standard and diffuse the advantage of popular education; his devoted patriotism and attachment to the Union—all combine to mark him as prominent. The services of William H. Seward as Senator of the State of New York for a term of four years, as Governor of the State of New York for two terms, as twice a Senator of the United States, as Secretary of State during the full terms of the eventual administration of President Lincoln and Johnson, and his continued interest in and devotion to the welfare of his whole country since his retirement, have aggregated an amount of enlightened and inithiul public service which a united people will ever hold in grateful remembrance.

Alderman Richardson and Alderman Ropes

Alderman Richardson and Alderman Rores spoke at considerable length in praise of the vir-tues of the deceased.

WATERPORD, N. T., Oct. 14, 1872. This usually quiet village was suddenly thrown into a state of great excitement at an early hour this morning by the reported robbery of the contents of the vault of the Saratoga County Bank, an old monied institution, and the murder of the family of the Cashter, Van Hovenberg. The villagers all crowded about the little bank building in the gray of the early dawn to find all the members of the Cashier's family alive but the bank vault cleared of its valuables, nearly

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS. mostly in government bonds, the property of citizens whose boxes were in the vault for safe keep-The bank loss is only $9,500, all in currency. The Cashier's family reside in a house in the rear of the bank building which is situated on the northeast corner of Broad and Second streets. On the rear of the Cashier's residence is a window on the second story, which has been left without any particular safeguards, and

AN ENTRANCE WAS REFECTED through this window about midnight, by one of the burglars clambering up to it from the iron guards on the outside of the windows on the first floor be low. Once in the residence he passed through to the front basement door and admitted his confederates, eight in number.

THE NINE BURGLARS, who had evidently learned the habits of the family, proceeded at once to the room of the servant girl Ann Driscoll, and bound and gagged her. Then, going up stairs, successively

BOUND AND GAGGED THE CASHIER. his wife, two daughters and a little son. The men were all masked and heavily armed, the masks being made from knit goods, with holes cut for the eyes and mouths of the rascals. The family were all placed in one room, and one ruffian left to guard them, while the remainder dragged the Cashier to the bank building, where, with four pistols presented at his head and a bowie knife held over his heart, he was PORCED TO UNLOCK THE BANK VAULT, which the thieves proceeded to empty of its valuables, having done which they left the place, leaving all the persons bound and gagged. By three o'clock their work had been completed, and they lett as quietly as they had come. About four o'clock the eldest daughter succeeded in getting her hands free from the tar-covered thongs which had bound her and went in search of her father, whom she found lying stretched on the bank floor His feet were unbound and his pistol handed to behind his back.

THE FIRING ALARMED THE NEIGHBORS, who hastened to the house, and, files being pro cured, all the other members of the family were soon set free. Despatches were sent in all directions, and at an early hour to Superintendent Mc-Kenna, of the Troy police force. There is no regularly established police force here. Captain Murphy arrived on the scene and made a careful examination of the place, which resulted in the discovery of the manner by which an entrance had been effected and set at rest the rumors which had been set affoat that the

ON THE TRACK OF THE ROBBERS. It was ascertained during the morning that a carriage, containing three men, had been driver rapidly through Cohoes, at an early hour this morn ing, and down the turnpike road leading to Albany. through the toll gate of which the vehicle was rapidly driven at about four o'clock, the driver failing to pay the toll. This gate is half a mile north of the boundaries of Albany, and here all traces of the carriage cease. At ten o'clock two men took the train at

ALBANY FOR NEW YORK, but got out at Castleton, some eight miles below there, and, hiring a carriage for Stuyvesant, they proceeded there, where hey took a later New York train. In the meantime the news of the robbery had reached Castieton, and the station agent there, suspecting something wrong on the part of the two suspiciously acting men, he telegraphed to Stuyvesant, when he learned that the men had gone on to New York by the cars. Another telegram to Hudson overtook the rascals, and

THEY WERE ARRESTED. They refused to give their names, but a resident of Troy, it is said, who was in Hudson, recognized one of them as "Ret" Curiey, a notorious bank robber and planner of lorgiaries. The name of the other is unknown, but he and the other seven are supposed to be New York thieves.

A REWARD OF TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS has been offered for the arrest of the robbers. The bank will continue business as usual, a supply of greenbacks from the Troy banks enabling it to meet all demads made thus far.

The Bolters from the Regular Republican Party Hissed Out of Columbia-Reuben Tomlinson and Schator Sawyer Suddenly Leave the City. COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 14, 1879.

All the speakers and the regular Executive Committee being absent from this city speaking at various places in the State, the boilers' branch of the republican party sprung a meeting here. Drums were beaten by negroes, who soon collected a crowd of two or three hundred in a street, nearly all negroes. Reuben Tomlinson, the bolters' candi-date for Governor, undertook to speak first, but was hooted off the stand, all kinds of vile epithets being hooted off the stand, all kinds of vile epithets being hurled at him, but no real violence was used. United States Senator F. A. Sawyer then attempted to address the meeting, and fared even worse than his predecessor, leaving the stand in disgust. District Attorney Corbin used great endeavors to gain an audience, but the negroes would not listen and determined that no speeches should be made. All feit a relief that no more serious consequences followed. The boilers named left in the first train for Charleston this afternoon, Political excitement runs pretty high ust now.

the first train for Charleston this afternoon,
Political excitement runs pretty high just now,
the election being on Wednesday. The bolters have put Ben Perry, Provisional Governor under President Johnson and democratic nominee for Congress for the Fourth district, upon their ticket so as to get the democratic vote. A prominent Washington politician is here working hard to secure the election of Louis E. Johnson as Congressman at large. Johnson was formerly United States Marshal in this State and is a son of Reverdy Johnson. His chances are slim as he goes with the botting movement.

The Intricacies and Involutions State Politics-A Prominent Politician Jailed-What Is Said of the Case.

COLUMBIA, Oct. 14, 1872. Captain Henry O. Carter, who undertook by forged papers of a political character purporting to come from President Grant and Secretary of the Treasury Richardson to run the political machine

Treasury Richardson to run the political machine, and who was jailed on the 3d inst. on a charge of forgery, was brought before Judge Melton on a writ of habeas corpus to-night.

The case was elaborately argued, it being contended that although faise the papers were not innate forgeries. The Judge reserved his opinion till to-morrow, when Carter will either be fully discharged or bailed, most likely the latter.

This case has much political significance, and the Moses party would care little to have Carter running about very many days before the State election, which occurs on Wednesday. It is generally conceded by all that the scheme was to get Moses to Charleston, give yim the forged letters, and then jail him for publishing them. It would have ruined his prospects for Governor. It is hinted quite openly that prominent political enemies arranged the plan. If so, they have deserted their tool since he has been in jail.

Hendricks' Majority-Nearly the Whole of the Republican State Ticket Elected.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 14, 1872. The official vote of seventy-seven received at the office of the Secretary of State, with semi-official returns from the other eighteen counties, give T. A. Hendricks (democrat) for Governor, 894 majority; Leonidas Sexton (republi-894 majority; Leonldas Sexton (republican) for Lieutenant Governor, 1,313 majority; W. W. Curry (rep.), for Secretary of State, 1,163; J. A. Wiedmar (rep.), for Auditor, 1,224 majority; J. B. Glover (rep.), for Treasurer, 1,520 majority; G. L. Orth (rep.), for Congress at large, 1,147 majority; William Williams (rep.), for Congress at large, 1,147 majority. The balance of the State ticket, except Superintendent of Public Instruction, is republican. For the latter office Milton B. Hopkins (dem.) is elected.

The Legislature, from the official returns, will stand fifty-four republicans to forty-six democrats in the House, and twenty-seven republicans to twenty-three democrats in the Senate.

The official vote of the Ninth Congressional district elects Neff over Shanks (republican) by twenty-eight votes, but in one township in Adams county—Shanks' district—lorty-seven republican votes were thrown out on account of the words "Republican Ticket" being printed at the head of the ticket. If these votes are allowed Shanks will be elected by nineteen votes.

Both parties are preparing to renew the contest for the Presidential election.

THE ARCHBISHOP OF BALTIMORE

Arrangements for a Provincial Council.

The Primate on Liberty of Conscience.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14, 1872. The Archbishop of New York and all the sudragan bishops of the province of Baitimore attending the ceremony of the installation of Archbishop Bayley yet remain here, and were in conference this morning at the Archiepiscopal residence for several hours on important matters pertaining to the interests of the province. It is understood that a provincial council will be convened early to the administration of the new Archbishop. The interests of the colored people of the Atlantic States and the Important subject of secular education will be prominent topics of consideration The last Provincial Council was held three years given in honor of the new Archotshop at the Archiepiscopal residence yesterday, in response to a sentiment offered by Archbishop McCloskey, of New York, that long life, health, prosperity and happiness, with God's blessing, might attend the Metropolitan of the first provincial see of the United States, Archbishop Bayley rose and said that while it was against his personal wish that he had been appointed to preside over the archdiocese of Baltimore, the bishops and clergy of the province should not understand that he came among them unwillingly. This remark was ceived with applause. Then, rising to his full height, the Archbishop said that he was glad to be among the right reverend and reverend clergy of an archdiocese which bore a noble Catholic pat ronymic. He had in his discourse that day alluded to the fact that he was as good a Marylander as any of his flock. He had always admired the heroic spirit of Lord Baltimore and believed in perpetuating it. He NEVER DID BELIEVE IN OPPOSING LIBERTY OF COM-and was an earnest advocate of its fullest exercise. At this point Archbishop Bayley looked toward Archbishop McCloskey, who was sitting on his right, and paused as if awaiting his approving smile. Every eye was fixed upon him and many of the clergy with uplifted hands, stood ready to applaud the sentiment, but the Archbishop of New York, with rigid face, sat unmoved and gave NO MANIFESTATION OF APPROVAL.

Archbishop Bayley, however, reiterated the seq-timent. He concluded by remarking that he supposed he had been appointed to his present important trust because, among other reasons, he was known to be unalterably opposed to the materfalistic spirit of the age, which was so utterly antagonistic to all the principles of religion, and because, further, he was known to be an inveterate enemy of the great evil of intemperance. DARING HOTEL ROBBERY.

$20,000 Worth of Sample Watches Stolen from a Hotel in Chicago. CHICAGO, III., Oct. 14, 1872. The heaviest robbery that has occurred in this city for a number of years was perpetrated some time between one and six o'clock on Saturday morning last, at the Hess House, on Third avenue. Two sample trunks, filled with watches, valued a $20,000, belonging to Eichberg & Co., of New York, were taken from the office of the hotel, where they had been left by M. N. Strauss, the travelling agent for that firm. The robbery was discovered on Saturday morning, but was kept quiet. Detectives are at work on the case.
